FINDING LIST FOR NOVELS

INV. 1898.

MERCANTILE LIBRARY

OF PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Mercantile Library Company.

PREFATORY NOTE.

More than a year ago the Novels in this Library were rearranged on a plan that differs, in important respects, from any hitherto in use. The chief designs in making this change were to have all the books of each author in one place, and to make it easy to find any book without the aid of a catalogue.

The books are arranged in alphabetical order, first by the names of the authors, then the books of each author by their titles. In numbering the books the usual class designation is dispensed with, as the peculiarity of the labels sufficiently marks the class, and instead of it there is placed on the label of each book a capital letter which is the initial of the author's surname. Thus the letter A is placed on all the books whose author's names begin with that letter, and they are placed on the shelves together; and so of each of the other letters. Each of these groups or sections is numbered independently.

At the right of the initial letter and on a line with it is placed a number which designates a group of authors whose names are nearly identical, and under this is placed the number which distinguishes the individual books.

"How then shall I find a book of which I do not know the number? i.e. Pauline by Walford."

As the letter W is near the end of the alphabet, go toward the last of the cases containing novels, toward the right, and look for the letter W. As few names beginning with W will come before Walford, this will readily be found, it being no. 20.

A little reflection will enable any one to decide approximately where in the novel department any author's works are to be looked for.

Books where authors are not known are placed in the general alphabetical arrangement by their title.

The letter I, Q, U, X, and Z, are not employed to designate authors on account of liability to error in registering, and books by authors having these initials are placed under J, P, V, W, and Y.

JOHN EDMANDS, Librarian.

CATALOGUE OF BOOKS

IN CLOSED CASES ON THE

—OF THE—

MERCANTILE LIBRARY.

ARRANGED BY SUBJECTS.

PHILADELPHIA:
PRINTED FOR THE COMPANY,
1878.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

A PROMINENT feature of this Library from its origin, and one to which it has owed much of its great success, has been its open cases. Members have always been allowed to go directly to the shelves and make their own selection of books. In this respect its management has been widely different from that of all other large libraries: the practice in these being to place the books out of reach of the readers and give them out only through an attendant.

For some years a few books of special value or that were very liable to injury, have been placed in closed cases. These are books whose chief value is in their plates or other illustrations, those that are rare from the small number printed or the exhaustion of the edition, choice books that would be injured by promiscuous handling, and those that possessed some individual or other peculiarity.

These books are not separated from the others for the purpose of keeping them away from the members, but to have them under especial care and to preserve them in good condition, so that those who have occasion to use them may have the full benefit of their use.

These books are all accessible to the readers through an attendant, and the greater part of them may be taken out for home use. A few of them, designated on the catalogue by a *, are limited to use in the building, unless special permission is obtained from the board to take them away.

This catalogue has been printed to afford the members a knowledge of the books contained in these cases; and it is arranged by classes and subjects so as to afford a readier means of finding the books desired. The titles are made brief and no attempt has been made at bibliographical accuracy.
